

Personal Impact for Leaders

Every leader needs to make a positive impact and be a role model for others. You need to be inspiring, motivating and authoritative in your communication. This Personal Impact Master Class develops key executive communication and leadership skills and is tailored to meet the specific needs of each participant.

Each leader receives detailed feedback on their style and will leave with a clear plan for how to communicate with your people in a way that will motivate and inspire them to drive your business forward.

Who is it for?

Leaders who want to influence, motivate, and convince others using a range of techniques in various situations will benefit enormously from this communication and leadership skills training.

This programme is particularly relevant and beneficial for those who want to deliver strong leadership in challenging times. It will give participants the skills to galvanise their staff to reach targets, handle conflict, deliver bad news and reinforce strategic direction.
